Easter Egg Hunts you can do at Home

Jelly Bean Hunt

Bring the magic of the Easter egg hunt indoors. You can hide jelly beans for your little ones to find and not worry about losing an egg in the couch. You and your child can practice naming colors and counting as you hunt.

Snack time Egg Hunt

The thrill of the hunt can be more fun than eating the candy for your toddler. Fill some plastic Easter eggs with toddler-friendly snacks like cereal or crackers and let them enjoy the holiday while building up fine motor skills.

Glow in the Dark Egg Hunt

Don't want the fun to end just because the day is over? Buy some glow-in-the-dark plastic eggs and hide them around the house. Make sure to charge them up with a bright light for a glowing good time!
